Answer Key

Stuart Little is a 1945 children's novel by E. B. White, his first book for children, and is widely recognized as a classic in children's literature. Stuart Little was illustrated by the subsequently award-winning artist Garth Williams, also his first work for children. The novel is a realistic fantasy about a talking mouse named Stuart, born to human parents in New York. Stuart Little, the story of a normal family into which a mouse is born, is narrated by Johnny Carson. Summary. Tells the story of a boy, born five inches tall and weighing five ounces, with ears, whiskers, and tail like those of a mouse. Because of his size, many adventures befall him - a sailboat race across a lake in New York's Central Park, a rescue from a trash boat and a northbound trip in search of Margalo, a bird who has flown away from New York City because of a threatening note.
