President James Madison named two top generals: 62-year-old Henry Dearborn and 63-year-old Thomas Pinckney. The United States had only a few warships and gunboats with which to face the British navy—the most powerful naval force in the world. Historian and professor Alan Taylor says the American people were divided about the war. By April 1814 Napoleon was forced from power in Europe. And the war between France and Britain was over. The end of the war in Europe permitted Britain to send many of its soldiers to fight against the United States. President Madison had fled the White House. He crossed the Potomac River and started toward his home in Virginia. He joined his wife on the road the second day. They decided to wait about 25 kilometers from Washington. Founding fathers quiz. George Washington James Madison Thomas Jefferson John Adams Benjamin Franklin Alexander Hamilton George Mason Gouverneur Morris Roger Sherman James Wilson Edmund Randolph. George Washington (1732-1799). Highest Political Office: President (1789-1797). Madison was the last Founding Father to die at the age of eighty-five in June, 1836. His Politics: His presidency was marred by the War of 1812â€”the only war in which U.S. soil was overrun by enemy forces. The war was precipitated by the widespread sentiment that the U.S. was destined to conquer Canada, then a British territory.
