A test which required citizens to read and interpret a part of the state constitution in order to register to vote which was used in the South after the Civil War to disenfranchise blacks. Poll Tax. A tax which had to be paid each year to retain the right to vote which was used to disenfranchise poor blacks in the South. This is related to the Civil War because industry falls under solvency. Solvency is one of the five "S"es that leads to the confederate states seceding. A document that proclaims all slaves free if the CSA did not surrender. It relates to the Civil War because it was a turning point in the war. The Union took control of the Mississippi and cut off Louisianna, Texas, and Arkansas from the the rest of the Confederation. A compromise that said anything above a certain line will be a free state and anything below it will be a slave state. This has to do with the Civil War because it contributes to sectionalism. Later, the states thought this was unfair. Before war. The word antebellum relates to the Civil war because it was the time period before the war started. The Union was still in tact. The Opponents. IT WAS A MONDAY IN WASHINGTON, January 21; Jefferson Davis rose from his seat in the Senate. South Carolina had left the Union a month before, followed by Mississippi, Florida, and Alabama, which seceded at the rate of one a day during the second week of the new year. If so, it could have been from more than present tension. His life was crowded with glory, as a soldier, as a suitor, as a statesman; yet the glory was more than balanced by personal sorrow as a man. He had known tears in his time. He was born in Christian County, Kentucky, within a year and a hundred miles of the man whose election had brought on the present furor.
